This is the location where the skier came to a stop after being caught and carried by a small avalanche in the Bridger Range.

From Obs: "While skiing the playground, a northeast aspect off the Bridgers, my friends and I released a wind slab. The slab released on a rollover and was approximately 20 ft wide and 6-12" deep at the top. The slide carried my friend about 150 ft." Photo: Anonymous

Advisory Region

Bridger Range
Longitude
-110.93W
Latitude
45.84N
Avalanche Details: Human-triggered Avalanche, Playground
Forecast link: GNFAC Avalanche Forecast for Tue Jan 25, 2022
Bridger Range, 2022-01-24