Small wind slabs in Wolverine, Bridgers

Wolverine Bowl Bridger Range 3/6/2024 Code Latitude 45.83010 Longitude -110.93400 Notes

Toured up on the ramp yesterday. In wolverine bowl, another skier and I both popped small wind pockets (6" deep at the most) about half way done the slope on a north facing roll. We also saw lots of snow transport up high on the ridges all day, as well as some slight warming on direct south faces.

Number of slides

1
Number caught
0
Number buried
0
Snow Observation Source
Small wind formations in the Bridgers
Slab Thickness units
centimeters
Single / Multiple / Red Flag
Single Avalanche
Advisory Year
23-24