

This avalanche was triggered by a skier climbing a nearby, low angle ridge about 100ft away. He was experiencing lots of collapsing and cracking until a collapse of the weak layer propagated across these two slide paths. The avalanche broke 2-3 ft deep and ran well below the edge of the photo. Photo: K. Sperry

Advisory Region
Northern Madison
Longitude
-111.32W
Latitude
45.30N

Forecast link: GNFAC Avalanche Advisory for Fri Jan 8, 2010
Northern Madison, 2010-01-07