

This natural avalanche occurred on Henderson Mountain near Cooke City. Even though it may still be fall, there is enough snow for avalanches in many areas. Have fresh batteries in your beacon, make sure all your gear is in good shape, and most importantly pay attention to mother nature's warning signs like heavy snowfall, heavy wind loading, collapsing or cracking, and recent avalanche activity. Photo: GNFAC

Advisory Region
Cooke City
Longitude
-109.95W
Latitude
45.05N

Forecast link: GNFAC Avalanche Advisory for Fri Nov 2, 2012

